CORONATION HIGHLIGHT OF CARNIVAL BALL

On the bright, moonlit night of February 12th people flocked to the William Bingham Gymnasium for the Carnival Ball. The common topic of conversation was the choice of Carnival Queen, a choice known to none except a select few until the actual coronation.

Nearly everyone was in high spirits over the way the ski team had showed up in the meet; congratulations were handed out all around. Then the band, led by Frank Maplesdon, started making with the music and those present danced for about half an hour, giving late comers a chance to see the coronation.

The lights went out, leaving a single spot focused on the door at the rear of the hall. Eight members of the ski team, Dick Ireland, Les Streeter, Dick Marshall, Fritz Norton, Bob Adams, Larry Stinchfield, Ed Hickey, and Shelby Putnam marched out in pairs each armed with a ski pole. At even distance along the center aisle they broke ranks and stood facing inward.

As Don Emmett and Addison Saunders unrolled red and white ribbons, flanking the aisle, the doors opened and the queen's court emerged two by two and walked slowly into the ballroom to the strains of a triumphal march. Four ladies-in-waiting having gone before her the queen came forth and all eyes turned to gaze on Betty Gould, trailed by three more candidates who held her large train of maroon velvet.

The spotlight followed her as she walked beneath an arch of crossed ski poles toward her throne at the foot of the stage. Having mounted to her dais, the Queen seated herself while her attendants, Debbie Durivage, Sandy Flanders, Nancy Crane, Adele Kimball, Betty Backus, Barbara Farrar and Mary Scott stood by her side.

Once more the doors opened, and as the lights went on again Judy Myers was seen making her way slowly but surely to the queen with the crown on a pillow. Mr. Ireland took the crown and wishing the Queen a happy reign he placed it on her head.

The eight members then formed into a line and marched up to the platform. One by one they knelt before the Queen and were "knighted" by a touch of her scepter. Last to be knighted was Captain Dick Ireland who then presented Betty with a bouquet of yellow roses on behalf of the team and the Outing Club.

The band then started in again and Captain Ireland led Betty off for the Grand March and the first dance. The rest of the evening was taken up with dancing with a number of parents and alumni taking part.

After the ball was over the cleanup committee under the direction of Joe Roderick quietly undid the work of Miss Stallwood's decorating committee, removing the gay, festive banners from ceilings, balconies and curtains; perhaps they also finished up the refreshments before turning in to bed.

BETTY GOULD, CARNIVAL QUEEN

Betty Gould, our 17 year old Carnival Queen from Cape Elizabeth, had a victorious reign. Her subjects presented her with the hard fought for State Ski Championship.

Betty has had an active two year stay here at Gould. She is very outstanding in sports and hopes to go to Sargent to study to be a physical therapist. So for this year she has been on the hockey and basketball teams, and is also active in skiing. She is the hockey manager on the A. A. Council. Swimming and riding, however, are her favorite sports. This summer she hopes to be a counselor at a camp and teach swimming.

Aside from sports Betty has many other interests, the next most outstanding one being music. She plays the clarinet in the band and orchestra and is a member of the Chapman Club, the girls' and Varsity glee clubs and the Congregational Church choir. She has gone to the Maine Music camp at Farmington for four years. This spring she is to be one of our representatives at the New England Music Festival.

Along with her academic work and her participation in the above mentioned organizations, she is also a member of the Camera Club and Science Club.

SOPHS LOSE TICKET CONTEST

The sophomore class proved poor salesmen but good cleaners-uppers in the Carnival class ticket selling competition. It had been previously announced that

ONE ACT PLAYS

In conjunction with the Winter Carnival the Gould Academy Dramatic Club presented three one act plays on Friday, Feb. 11.

The first play, Star Struck, related the trials and tribulations of life with a 'movie star' complete with two cockroach exterminators who unconcernedly wandered in at odd moments to carry on their business.

Next came Ringling In The Groom, a story of a henpecked, Casper Milquetoast character who kept putting off his marriage and at the same time trying to ward off a money seeking missionary, a social climber (his mother), a maid who played the ponies; he also had trouble with his brother who preferred clarinet to college and his sister who perpetually needed money. The only sympathy seemed to come from his grandmother who observed all of the goings on in the household.

The third play was 'Op-O-Mc-Thumb, the story of a small English slave who fell in love with a man who had come once to the laundry where she worked; tough and self-reliant with the girls in the laundry she changed her character when she confronted the man of her dreams.

The casts of the plays were as follows:

The class which sold the fewest tickets would have to clean up the gym after the dance. The seniors and juniors finished only slightly ahead of the unlucky sophs, but the freshmen, perhaps due to the help of big brothers, made a truly remarkable showing.

IRELAND, STREETER LEAD TEAM IN CARNIVAL MEET

Feb. 12 — Gaining twenty points in the slalom and jumping, the Gould Academy ski team increased their eight point first day lead over Edward Little High of Auburn to continue their reign as state champions. Dick Ireland and Les Streeter, the potent Gould one-two punch led the team to victory on the Swan's Corner Slope.

In the morning slalom event Tom Sawyer of Deering and Dick Marshall of Gould finished behind Ireland and Streeter, with Ken Roberts of Andover, more famed as a jumper, taking fifth place. Bob Adams surprised with a good run which gave him eighth place and helped Gould to a twelve point lead over Edward Little. The course was fast, and due to lack of a good base, did not hold snow to well.

Roberts of Andover and Martineau of Rumford both leaped 102 feet to tie for the longest jump of the meet, but Roberts' better form earned him the first place medal. Ireland and Streeter finished third and fourth and Flynn, leading a three man Lewiston jumping team, gained fifth

Skiing

To ski! To skim down snow-covered slopes as birds skim through the air. To fly over the icy whiteness as angels fly from cloud to cloud. It brings that never-ending thrill, that complete feeling of well-being that comes otherwise only in heaven.

Sentiments such as these, and in much more lyrical prose, and even poetry, have been cluttering up books, magazines, and newspapers for the past ten years. What has brought on this mass of splendid literary outpouring, and paralleling it, the great boom in skiing that has come about in this country in the last decade or two?

In the early part of the century the only American skiers were a few Scandinavian and Alpine immigrants who were looked upon as fools because of their desire to go out and run around with boards on their feet. Now our slopes are crowded with more than five million men, women, and children of every size, shape, and description. What has brought about this amazing metamorphosis? Just what does skiing offer?

Most American skiers do not know exactly why they like to ski. Few European skiers can express themselves definitely on the subject. In fact, we could probably get as many good ideas from the skis as from the skiers.

First of all, skiing is fun. Only those who have just finished a cross-country time trial or recently come down from packing the hill will deny that. There is a certain fun-producing capacity that only skiing has that makes it supreme among winter sports.

Skiing is famous along health lines for two things. It develops muscles and makes cripples. The fresh air and exercise that one gets while skiing are extremely beneficial, but try to tell that to someone who has hobbled about on crutches for a week as a result of a headlong plunge into that soft, white fluffy stuff that comes up to meet you like a stone wall.

Of course, competitive skiers at times may be oblivious to the fun angle in skiing, for they are affected by the thrill of competition, which is unknown to mere recreation skiers. But no matter how good you are, it's still fun.

Thirty years ago a few voices, well scattered, were heard crying out in a Scandinavian accent, "Everybody he ought to ski!" Now America has taken their advice. See you on the hill some afternoon.

The Inquiring Reporter

Everyone must have heard rumors by now about the combined gym meet for 1949. A question concerning this has been asked certain people recently and here are a few opinions.

When asked, Barbara Jackson, "Jackie," replied, "It depends upon how much is combined."

Betty Barlow when approached answered, "If the boys are given enough to worry about and can't spend their time criticizing us then it's super."

"No! Definitely No! I don't like it." And when asked why Sterl Haskell answered, "I don't know, but let the girls have their old gym meet and let us have ours in peace."

Elsie Brown came out of her day dreams long enough to say, "Uh! Me? Oh I don't care and it wouldn't make much difference if I did."

Larry Stinchfield when asked answered, "What difference does it make? We won't miss anything we haven't seen for the past three years."

Nancy Randall in her dazed stupor answered, "Well, since the beginning of the year all I've heard is 'The Gym Meet.' Every time we new-comers hear it we shake with terror. I say if there's anything that will improve it I'm all for it."

The only answer obtained from Dick Ireland was a large fierce NO!

It sort of looks like we're outnumbered girls so let's leave it up to Miss Stallwood and Joe to reach a happy medium.

ALUMNI

Along with visiting skiers and parents Carnival Week-End brought a flood of Alumni onto the campus who returned to join once again in the fun of Carnival and renew old friends and pleasant memories.

Up in room 25 in the boys' dorm early Friday evening it looked like old home week as previous occupants of that noble room gathered to look the place over. They included Jack Hawley, Stan Cole, Wayne Allen, and Red Norwood.

A large delegation of fugitives from the University of Maine included Ruth Judkins, Ed Bailey, Leroy Dymont, "Cuba" Medeiros, Reg Nye, "Shaky" Fernald, Priscilla Goxzin, Al Emerv, and Sally Stowell.

THE OUTING CLUB

Winter, season of most of the activities of the Gould Academy Outing Club, is under way at last, and the club has its plans ready for action. Fifty-six students are now enrolled and the club is eager to have all others who are interested join, which is done by having their name written on the membership list and the treasurer will track them down soon to collect the annual dues of fifty cents. Members of the ski team are automatically members of the Outing Club, whose faculty advisor is the team coach, Mr. Richardson. Meetings are not regular but occur whenever a necessity arises and will always be announced. The election of this year's officers was held recently, the returns listed as follows: President, Fritz Norton; Vice President, Les Streeter; Secretary, Doris Sturtevant; Treasurer, Betty Barlow.

The aim of the Outing Club is to stimulate interest in outdoor activities and physical exercise, particularly in skiing. Each year the Winter Carnival is sponsored by the Club, whose committees plan the sports competitions and the Carnival Ball. Helping to run all ski meets, preparing the courses, providing ski instruction once a week for its members, and adding fun and excitement by planning recreational ski trips to good slopes in the vicinity make up the club's active winter program. In spring and fall mountain climbing trips, maintenance of the ski slopes, and trail cutting are the centered projects. The Outing Club actually performs needed services for Gould and has the fun of vigorous and creative outdoor activities.

Dougherty, past Carnival Queens, were at the dance to watch the crowning of the new Queen.

Jessie Jones, Biff Crockett, and Betsy Grandin were seen looking around the girls' dorm.

Gil LeClair spotted the jumping and Don Powers and Herbie Hunt forerun the slalom while the sober institution that is Bowdoin College was represented by Louis Wood and Dick Ellwell.

Of course Jerry Linnell and Roger Beedy should be included but they have become so familiar around the campus that it might be foolish to call them alumni. The week-end that they didn't show up might be the one to mention.

The Headmaster's Corner

ONE JOB AND TWO PEOPLE

John Pitkin was as perplexed in the decision he was obliged to make as was Hamlet in his soliloquy, "To be or not to be." He had been employing two clerks, but business had slowed down so much that he felt it necessary to discharge one of them. But which one? He liked both—both worked hard and faithfully, both were honest and capable, both dressed neatly, and both treated the patrons with fairness and courtesy. An idea came to Pitkin in the middle of the night.

The next morning he said to Joe: "Son, I want you to take a day off. Why not go into the country and have a good time?"

When Edward came in, he said the same thing to him. Then, having rid himself of the two young men, he chuckled as he rubbed his hands and went speedily to work stamping "Joe" and "Edward" on a pack of small cards, on each of which was the word "Why?"

As customers came into the store, Pitkin handed each the two cards, with the explanation: "I am obliged to let one of my clerks go. Will you please drop through the slot in the wall the name of the clerk you want me to keep, and why?" And Pitkin noted that most of the customers were quite eager to comply with his request.

That night Pitkin tallied "votes" late into the night. The final count gave Joe three hundred and seventy-two and Edward forty-five.

"How do you account for it?" asked his good wife. "Edward is a mighty fine young man."

"It's accounted for right in these answers to the question 'why?'" said Pitkin. "Let me read you a few of the reasons given in favor of Joe:

"Joe smiles when he sees me coming in."

"Joe never fails to ask about little Johnny, my crippled son."

"Joe has a good word for everyone."

"Joe is never too busy to do a little extra for me."

"I like the way Joe gives me back my change."

"Joe's voice is so gentle and human."

"Never saw Joe out of humor."

"Joe can keep ten people in good humor while he waits on one."

"Because Joe likes me—he shows it."

"Joe knows me on the street."

"Joe sent my little niece a big sack of candy when she was sick."

"Joe carried my bundles all the way home one day when the walks were slippery."

And Pitkin decided that his own vote would be to keep Joe working.

Under the Cupola

I hear the ski tow has created heaps of fun for all, young and old. Especially on those warm evenings when a romantic moon plays the important part for one who enjoys skiing.

A certain Pontiac seems to have become almost extinct the past few weeks. A couple of weeks ago it wasn't unusual to see it in Lewiston, Norway or even Skillingston. That tune "You Can't Be True Dear" runs through our minds as we see the individual that generally occupied the middle section of the front seat.

The boys have been thinking strongly about the Carnival Ball and wondering who they dare to ask and how to approach the little lady in a persuasive and gentleman-like manner.

After games seems to be a fine time for a little jazz (music). Maybe that is one reason for all the morning absentees. Another reason might have been over exertion resulting from hard play in the victorious games. We'll use that for an excuse anyway.

In Middle Intervale there is a certain girl who usually carries home an armful of books. Last Friday night she stepped gracefully into and off the bus without any books or papers to go flying around in the snow. Maybe after all the strenuous cheering at the game she felt too weary to carry home those bulky books.

The Gehringites just can't seem to stay out of trouble, can they? More fun being had, isn't it?

Second hall certainly was a wet sticky mess about eleven o'clock one night when Miss Stallwood sneaked into the scene stating that all good girls should be in bed (but heck, who wants to be good?) The floors boasted an amazing shine the next day, after the unlucky clean-up committee was surprised by Miss Stallwood. By the way, Edith, maybe you and Ann ought to go into the cosmetic business—that stuff looked good!?! Made the floor sparkle, anyway.

If the individual who is trying to become Tarzan II doesn't confine her practise hours to the day time, she may find her name on the bulletin board some morning and not in a plea to take Tarzan's place either.

Dorie, you and Juddy better be good when your roommates aren't there to look after you! The movie was really good Saturday night and the skiing even better!

Sandie, you're a bad influence: your adventure at Mt. Washington started something. There now seems to be quite a few invalids hobbling around on crutches. Being unable to go on one's own power can have its advantages though—right, Peggy?

out soon it became apparent that the Huskies were outclassed in precisely the same manner in which the other schoolboy teams they have played have been outclassed. The long set shots of the Bates guards and the good under-the-basket play of center Larry Quimby proved too much for the Gould quintet, and trailing Quimby's 28 point tally were Dudley and Douglas of the Frosh who connected for 14 points each. Jerry Davis scored 13 points before he was forced to retire with an injured ankle, and Hall, Bennett and Smith got 9, 8 and 7 points respectively.

The Freshmen were substituting for Fryeburg, the scheduled game having been called off because of illness in their ranks.

MEXICO 12th GOULD VICTIM

Bethel, Feb. 9.—In the twelfth interscholastic contest of the season, the Huskies boosted their total to twelve wins. Although during the first few minutes of the first period it looked as if the visiting Pintos might give the Blue and Gold a run for their money as they have in past years, this was soon disproved by the first frame score of 12-3, and it was borne out that the Pintos were outclassed when the scores were 33-13 and 52-19 at the ends of the second and third periods. In the last eight minutes Coach Anderson substituted liberally, allowing the visitors to score 26 points while the Huskies scored only 22.

High scorers for Gould were Capt. Bennett with 24 points and Jerry Davis with 23. Others were Mason with 11, Hall with 10, and Boyd, Smith and Kendall with 2 each. High scorers for Mexico were the Fraser brothers, with 10 and 13 points.

HUSKIES TAKE NORWAY

The Gould Hoopsters increased their list of schoolboy wins to eleven on February 4 in the Norway Armory, defeating the Norway five by the imposing score of 71-32. Paced by Captain Cad Bennett and Jerry Davis, who captured 22 points each, the Blue and Gold piled up period scores of 14-4, 26-10, and 49-21. The fast offense and defense of the Gould payers caused the Norway boys to fall farther behind every period. Other high scorers for Gould were Don Hall, Charlie Smith and Ronnie Kendall with nine points each. Mike Boyd, Bob Dodge and Scott Guernsey also gave a good account of themselves.

GOULD SWAMPS SOUTH PARIS

February 2. Gould had little trouble taking South Paris by a 12-00 count. Four of the blue and gold team managed to get into the double figures with Davis piling up 20 points, Hall 16, Bennett 14, and Smith 12. The reserves saw considerable service also and played improved ball.

January 28. The Blue and Gold ran wild against St. Johnsbury to score a one sided 72-26 victory. To carry through the unbeaten title Hall, Davis and Bennett scored in double figures with 23, 17 and 15 respectively. The three men left on the varsity squad also got into the game and each man managed to get into the strong column.

Dumas and Barber were tops for the Vermonters with 9 and 8 points. The visitors had hard luck in their attempts at the goal throughout the game. As it was, however, our substitutions were enough to keep the score down to the near floodlevel which was reached. The summary follows:

BATES FROSH DEFEAT HUSKIES

Feb. 11. The Gould Academy basketball team met their second defeat of the season at the hands of the lanky, sharpshooting Bates Freshmen, in an afternoon game played in conjunction with the Gould Winter Carnival. The Frosh won by a 70-44 score which demonstrated their superior shooting and ball-handling capacity.

SKIERS OFF TO GOOD START IN STATE MEET

In the first two events of the Maine interscholastic ski meet at Lewiston, led by Captain Dick Ireland and teammate Streeter, took first place with a comfortable margin of 193.2 points over second place Edward Little's 184.29 points. The others who follow are Ashland with 160.1 and Deering with 151.8 while in the order of their scores come Andover, Rumford, Buckfield, Lewiston and Fryeburg.

Finishing first in the downhill race at Pleasant Mountain, Bridgton, was Dick Ireland followed by Streeter and Marshall of Gould in second and third places. Dick then proceeded to win the cross-country race in the afternoon, with Osgood of E. L. second and Streeter of Gould third. Gould also got 8th and 9th places in the shape of Adams and Norton. SKI MEET

The Gould skiers attended their first meet of the year January 28 and 29, at Edward Little High School in Auburn. Gould won the meet by closely edging out Edward Little, Hebron, Deering and St. Doms, who finished in that order.

The ski team left school Friday noon for Lewiston to enter in the cross country event which was to be held that afternoon. The trip to Lewiston was running smoothly until Mr. Ireland's car became the victim of a flat tire. Mr. Richardson, however, continued on to Lewiston with cross country entrants in his car, while Mr. Ireland, ably assisted by Don Emmett changed the tire.

The cross country race was over a new three mile course which none of the contestants, including the E. L. team, had used before. The event was close, but the Gould team took second place when the Edward Little team turned in amazingly fast times.

Friday night the entire team attended the Lewiston-Brunswick, Edward Little-Lewiston games through the courtesy of the E. L. Athletic Director. After the games the team rode to Lisbon where they stayed overnight at the Marshalls.

Saturday morning we returned to Lewiston for the Slalom. Dick Ireland took first place and was backed up by the rest of the team to win the event. The Gould skiers also won the downhill, which followed at 11:00 o'clock, when Dick took another first and was backed up by Streeter who took second.

The final event, jumping, was held Saturday afternoon. This event was very close between the two leading teams, Gould and E. L., until Les Streeter made the longest jump of the day, 22 meters, to take first place. Dick Ireland and Dick Marshall took 2nd and 3rd places to win the event for Gould.

Final Results:
1) Gould	375.84
2) Edward Little	367.46
(3) Hebron	235.45
(4) Deering	210.68
(5) St. Doms	172.23
